

Vancouver

Contributed by Administrator
Friday, 26 June 2009

I am in in Vancouver, Canada now.

Burns and I made it safely into Vancouver today. We didn't have any problems! Left the 497 at 4:30am, made it to Logan with plenty of time to spare. No lines at check in or security. Surprisingly we made it through security with out a problem. Customs in Toronto was a breeze, we spent 5 minutes waiting in line and maybe 2 minutes getting questioned. I guess wearing khaki's and a colored shirt with a clean shaved face makes a big difference. I must say Air Canada is awesome! to top it off all our luggage showed up! Not to bad of a day.

It is about 12:30am east coast time now so I have to go to bed, just wanted to do a quick update. More to come! Keep checking back as I will be updating everyday (hopefully) throughout the entire race.